Fluttering, No Appetite, Could not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try

HAD A WILD WEST MANIA.

Turned Away by the Sioux, He Seeks a Race Track and Is Arrested.

New York, July 26.—The youngest lad with the biggest nerve on record, Thomas Brown, nine years old, hailing from No. 238 Himrod street, Brooklyn, was picked up yesterday in front of the Brighton Beach race track at Coney Island, where he wanted to see Mike Dwyer or "Father Bill" Daly about learning to be a jockey. The policeman sent him to the West Brighton police station in the patrol wagon. The boy told Sergeant Kiprekey that he went from home in search of employment Tuesday. He did not want anything else. He went to the Sioux Indian village and asked the manager if he wanted a boy to ride the bucking Indian pony. Seeing no chance in the cow-punching line, Master Brown thought of the race horse, and was seeking a position in that line when taken into custody. A few hours later a woman dressed in mourning and carrying a baby entered the police station in search of a lost boy. She clasped eyes on Master Brown and caught him by the ear with a vigorous clutch which caused him to break forth into a yell that would have made a real cowboy in a green with envy. The woman was the boy's aunt. She said his mother, who was visiting her, and who lived near Prior Lake, about forty miles out of St. Paul, Minn., was nearly crazy over the youngster's disappearance.
